Calling for action on climate change

Together with WWF, we have joined 80 UK businesses including Willmott Dixon, Cisco, E.on, John Lewis Partnership, SSE, and BT to call on the new UK government to take decisive action to combat climate change and build a low-carbon economy.

Today, we are one of over 80 UK top businesses asking the new government to build a low-carbon economy and to take decisive action to combat climate change.

The open letter has been sent to Prime Minister David Cameron and published in today's Financial Times, asking the new administration to:

- Seek a strong global climate deal in Paris in December which limits temperature rises below 2 degrees Celsius.
- Set an ambitious 5th carbon budget to drive forward UK emissions reduction (covering period 2028-32).
- Establish a long-term framework for investment in the low-carbon economy, giving industry much-needed clarity over what is expected in terms of low-carbon development, and boost the confidence of green investors.

The calls are led by WWF-UK for a new approach that places low-carbon growth and responsible management of natural capital at the heart of the economy.
